The Speech of John Gregory, Esq; at the Opening the Assembly in Jamaica, in February last.

Gentlemen of the Council, Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

I Is far from my Intentions, to give you the Trouble of unnecessary Meetings, and however my calling you, has been interpreted to particular and partial Views of my own, it will not discourage me from doing my Duty, or asking your Assistance, when the Publick requires it.

Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

As some of your annual Laws expire next Month, I hope you may think this a convenient Time to revive them, and to raise such Supplies as may be judg'd necessary, for the Support of the Government and your own Security: On this Head, I must recommend to you the applying some Fund for the Use of the New-comers, who may be expected upon the Encouragement of the Law pass'd for that Purpose: I have yet no Advice of its being approved; but I think we have great Reason to hope it, since it was formed, as well as our Circumstances would admit, agreeable to his Majesty's Recommendation.

I must likewise offer to your Consideration, the Care of the poorer Sort already amongst us, who are greatly distress'd for want of Employment. The usual Method of providing for them, has been by a Deficiency Law; but if you find that inconvenient, and can fall into any Expedient more equal and less oppressive, which will add Strength to the Country, I shall very readily concur in such Measures.

In the framing these Bills, Gentlemen, it may be worth your Considering, whether the giving them a longer Duration than an Annual one, would not ease you of much Trouble, and the Publick of much Expence.

Gentlemen of the Council, Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

Among other Considerations, the better Regulating the Markets would be of great Use, and tend to the Relief of the Poor, by furnishing them more plentifully with fresh Provisions, and at easier Rates. It is matter of Surprize, that in a Country which abounds with all manner of Stock, far beyond the Proportion of People, and is so capable of subsisting within itself, we should depend so much upon the Markets abroad, and lay out such Sums in salted Provisions, which we find by Experience so prejudicial to the People: Our first Care should be to provide for our Security, by a sufficient Number of White Inhabitants. The way to do that is, by making this a good poor Man's Country, by giving all proper Encouragement; by suppressing all Negro Tradesmen and Boatmen; by setting up some Manufactures of Cotton, and by cultivating Coffee by the Labour of White People only. If these Measures were fully pursued, there would be a comfortable Provision for some Thousands: We should soon see a different Face of Affairs, a numerous and flourishing People.

Another thing, Gentlemen, which may deserve your Thoughts, is the Care of establishing some Schools for the Education of your Youth: a Work so useful, should by no Means be neglected, especially when it may be accomplished with little Expence to the Publick; for if I am rightly informed, there is sufficient in Charitable Legacies, if timely call'd in, to answer that Purpose.

It is but too true, Gentlemen, our Country is at present in a bad Condition; but it then becomes us not to withdraw, but exert our Duty to make it better: We have sufficient Assurances of his Majesty's Goodness to help and protect us; and we have still some Means left us to improve our Condition, I am willing to persuade myself, you will set earnestly about it; that your Counsels will now be united, and that we shall see the happy Effects of a good Agreement, so necessary to all Communities.

To the Honourable John Gregory, Esq; President of the Council, and Commander in Chief of this his Majesty's Island of Jamaica, and the Territories thereon depending in America, and Chancellor of the same.

The humble Address of the Assembly of Jamaica.

May it please your Honour,

WE his Majesty's most Dutiful and Loyal Subjects, the Assembly of this Island, do return your Honour our most humble Thanks for your Speech at the Opening of this Session.

We cannot conceive any Discontent from our Meeting at this Time, as our Annual Laws are so near expiring, and that it is now a favourable Season of the Year, when we may attend the Affairs of the Publick with the least Risque and Inconvenience: On the contrary, we are pleased at this, as we have been of every Occasion of declaring our Satisfaction, in your Honour's Administration; and we hope every new Opportunity will be a new Proof of the Harmony subsisting between your Honour and us, and of the Confidence we place in you, and double the Disappointments of those (if any such there are) who may be sway'd or over-power'd by Envy or Prejudice.

As often as your Honour has called us together, you have been pleased to give us Assurances of your Wishes for our Happiness, and Desire to promote our Welfare; and the many Proofs you have given of your good Offices and Endeavours, convinced us of the Sincerity of your Professions; and left us no room to doubt but you always acted with a strict and equal Regard to your Duty to his Majesty, your own Character, and the true Interest of his Majesty's Subjects here: And tho' your Calling us together may have been by some few interpreted into particular and partial Views of your own, yet we were so far from having any Share in such an Imputation, or approveing of it, that we thought it an unreasonable and unfair Way to judge so severely of any Person's Intentions; a Method which if it should prevail, might deprive all Moral Actions of their Merit, and place them to mean Motives and Purposes, more especially in your Honour's Case; who can propose nothing for our Common Good, but must in the End reflect a particular Benefit to yourself, as your Interest and our's are so apparently inseparable.

The many useful Matters which you are pleased to recommend to us, shall be immediately taken into our Consideration; and you may depend on our Care in dispatching such Business, and framing such Bills, as may be necessary, and answerable to our present Circumstances: In which we shall shew a due Regard to the Honour of his Majesty's Government, and the Ease and Interests of our Fellow-Subjects. And though we cannot, in all Respects, obviate the Badness of our Conditions, and some Disadvantages we lie under; yet so far as it is within our Compass, we shall not only prevent any further Decay to this valuable Colony, but shall always be ready to engage in any Measures, and chearfully exert ourselves to promote its Happiness.

We are sensible the Publick Business cannot be carried on without a good Agreement between us, and therefore have always carefully avoided all Heats and Animosities, which may have given any Interruption to it; and shall now, in all our Proceedings, preserve the same good Temper and Unanimity. His Majesty's Bounty and Goodness to us upon all Occasions, the Prudence and Mildness of your own Conduct, may justly expect and claim it, and the Welfare of our Country greatly depends upon it.

Passed the Assembly, the Tenth Day of February, 1736.

William Nedham, Speaker.

The Answer of the Honourable John Gregory, Esq; President of the Council, &c.

Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

I Return you my hearty Thanks for this Address, and for the Assurances you give me of proceeding with Dispatch upon what I have recommended. I do, Gentlemen, in a very particular Manner, return you my Thanks, for entering so generously into the Justification of my Conduct: I am sorry there was Occasion for it; but next to the Satisfaction of my own Mind, which acquits me of any dishonest Action, or wilful Neglect or Abuse of my Duty, the greatest Satisfaction I could possibly receive, is to stand acquitted by the Voice of such worthy and impartial Witnesses of my Actions.

Extract of a Letter from on board the Duke of Dorset (bound to the East Indies) dated at St Jago, one of the Cape Verd Islands, the 18th of February last.

'HAVING left the Downs the 5th of January, 'twas near 6 Days before we got clear of the 'Land of England, by reason of the Westerly 'Winds. On the 25th of January we arrived at 'the Island of Madeira, which we left the 5th of 'February, and came hither the 15th. All our 'Ship's Company have been very ill of a Calenture, 'a Distemper which seizes them in their Heads, so 'that if Care be not taken of 'em, they would all 'jump over-board, and there's now near a Score that 'are not able to move out of their Hammocks; but 'we have only lost one Man, and as we are now 'got into a Harbour, we shall be able to refresh 'them with good Chicken Broth, as well as Beef, 'here being such Plenty of all Sorts of Fowls, that 'for an old Coat, or any old Thing, you may buy as 'many as will serve you a Month; for the Portuguese, to whom the Island belongs, are so vain, as 'to strut in the Sailors cast off Garments; and so 'thievish, that while one or two of 'em hold a Man 'in Discourse, another will steal his Hat, or his 'Sword; and when they have an Opportunity, 'they'll strip Strangers naked. We shall take our 'Leave of 'em, however, To-morrow Night.
